> States expected standards of behavior, prohibited conduct, and the reporting and investigation process.

1. Our Standards

Every TechTrapture employee is expected to act with integrity, treat colleagues and customers with respect, and uphold the values set out in the TechTrapture Operating Principles.

This policy applies in all work settings, including offices, remote work, business travel, company events, and work-related digital channels.

2. Prohibited Conduct

Harassment, discrimination, bullying, and retaliation are strictly prohibited. This includes conduct based on race, gender, gender identity, age, disability, religion, sexual orientation, or any other protected characteristic.

Sexual harassment — including unwelcome advances, comments, or display of explicit material — is a serious violation that may result in immediate termination.

3. Reporting Concerns

Concerns may be raised with any manager, with People & Culture, or anonymously through the TechTrapture SpeakUp line at speakup.techtrapture.com, available 24/7.

All reports are handled confidentially. TechTrapture prohibits retaliation against anyone who reports a concern in good faith or participates in an investigation.

4. Investigation & Outcomes

Reports are acknowledged within 2 business days and investigations are targeted for completion within 30 days. Outcomes range from coaching and formal warnings to termination, depending on severity.

Knowingly false reports made in bad faith are themselves a violation of this policy.
