> Defines reimbursable business expenses, receipt thresholds, daily meal caps, and submission deadlines.

1. General Principle

TechTrapture reimburses reasonable, necessary, and properly documented business expenses. Expenses must be incurred wholly for legitimate business purposes and comply with this policy.

When in doubt, employees should seek pre-approval from their manager before incurring an expense.

2. Receipts & Documentation

An itemized receipt is required for every expense over $25. Expenses of $25 or less may be claimed without a receipt but must include a brief business justification.

Each claim must record the business purpose, attendees (for meals), and the project or cost center.

3. Meal Limits

Reimbursable meals while traveling are capped at $60 per day for domestic travel and $90 per day for international travel. Alcohol is reimbursable only for approved client-entertainment events and must be itemized separately.

Team meals not associated with travel require manager pre-approval and are capped at $40 per head.

4. Submission Deadline

Expense claims must be submitted within 30 days of the expense being incurred. Claims submitted more than 60 days after the expense date will not be reimbursed except in documented exceptional circumstances approved by Finance.

Reimbursements are paid in the next scheduled payroll cycle after approval.

5. Non-Reimbursable Items

Personal entertainment, traffic fines, airline change fees due to personal preference, hotel mini-bar charges, and loyalty-program fees are not reimbursable.

See the Travel & Per Diem Policy for airfare class rules and per diem rates.
